Vietnam's Ministry of Industry and Trade has proposed a subsidy of $1.65 billion to support 14 million households in installing rooftop solar systems. Household rooftop solar systems are key to meeting Vietnam's renewable energy goals.

Vietnam's solar power sector is governed by a number of key regulations and policies aimed at promoting the development of renewable energy while managing the challenges associated with rapid growth. The FiT program has been a major driver of solar power development in Vietnam, offering a tariff of.

On 22 October 2024, the Government of Vietnam issued Decree No. 135/2024/ND-CP stipulating policies encouraging development of self-produced and self-consumed rooftop solar power ("Decree 135"), which would immediately take effect from the date of issuance. Decree 135 ends nearly four years of.

After a long wait, the Government has officially issued Decree No. 135/2024/ND-CP dated 22 October 2024, providing mechanisms and policies to encourage the development of on-site self-consumption rooftop solar power ("Decree 135"). The Decree comes into effect on 22 October 2024 with the following.

When Vietnam Electricity Group (EVN) announced that FIT prices would sunset for projects after December 31, 2020, it sent ripples through neighborhoods, businesses, and investors alike. Suddenly, those panels on your roof weren't just a green badge of honor—they were stuck in regulatory limbo. And.

Vietnam's Ministry of Industry and Trade (MOIT) has announced a new round of feed-in tariffs (FIT) for solar power, introducing location-based pricing and, for the first time, incorporating energy storage systems. The updated scheme highlights the growing importance of storage in stabilizing the.

On 22 October 2024, the Vietnamese government promulgated its long-awaited Decree No. 135/2024/ND-CP governing the mechanism and policy for incentivising the development of self-consumption rooftop solar power systems (“RTS”) (“Decree 135”). Decree 135 provides the legal basis for developing such.
