

How to clean your solar panels

Overview

How do you clean a solar panel?

Here is how to clean solar panels yourself: Turn off your solar panel system. Gather your materials — water, equipment, and any cleaning products. Place them on a roof if you're climbing up or somewhere around if you're cleaning panels from the ground. Spray down solar panels. Just take a hose and wash all the debris away.

Do solar panels need cleaning?

There are some instances where solar panels might need cleaning, but most of the evidence says solar panels are self-sufficient and low-maintenance. We'll get to the best way to clean your solar panels in a minute.

How much does solar panel cleaning cost?

A professional solar panel cleaning company may not necessarily do a significantly better job than you can, but they're likely better equipped to clean and maintain rooftop units safely and already have all of the necessary equipment. Plus, professional solar panel cleaning will usually only cost you around $150-$300, or $15-$30 per panel.

Can rain clean your solar panels?

In general, let the rain take care of your solar panel cleaning. While it's not a complete solution, rain can help keep your panels clean. Monitor your system's functionality by paying attention to your energy bills and usage month-to-month. If you start to notice changes in your electric bill, maybe it's time to think about cleaning or some other type of maintenance.

What should I do if my solar panels get dirty?

Shut off your solar panel system – this ensures your safety and that your equipment won't get damaged. Use a soft brush to clean the surface of your dirty solar panels to remove debris like dirt and dust. Never use a rough or coarse brush as it could damage your panels.

Can you wash solar panels at home?

Yes, you can wash solar panels at home in the same manner you would wash your car. To avoid scratching the panels, use just water and a non-abrasive sponge to apply soapy water. Do not use any type of high-pressure water sprayer when washing off your solar panels.
