With the decreasing cost and improving performance of small hydro installations, solar power, wind power, and energy storage systems, renewable energy is expected to supplement or replace existing diesel grids on islands and in remote areas.

With the decreasing cost and improving performance of small hydro installations, solar power, wind power, and energy storage systems, renewable energy is expected to supplement or replace existing diesel grids on islands and in remote areas.

Among these is Nukissiorfiit, a government-owned utility company in Greenland, which has set an ambitious target: to transition to 100% renewable energy by the year 2030. To do so, they've turned to solar cells and battery banks to support the island's energy needs. Greenland is the largest island.

The Greenland Group is a global, fully integrated conglomerate operating across the U.S., Europe, Africa, and the Middle East. Greenland Group is deeply committed to improving the quality of life in the regions where it operates, with a strong focus on Africa. The Group recognizes reliable and.
