Overview

How do I become a solar installer in Iowa?

Look for companies that have NABCEP Certified professionals or certified electricians on staff and are properly insured, so their workers, and you, are protected. To become a solar installer in Iowa, it is required to obtain a state electrical contractor's license or journeyman's license under the supervision of an electrical contractor.

How much do solar panels cost in Iowa?

Solar panels will save you a lot of money over time, but the upfront costs aren't cheap. The average Iowa homeowner needs a 11.23 kW solar panel system to cover their electricity needs, which comes out to $33,282 before incentives. Prices range from $28,290 to $38,274, but after the federal tax credit, that drops by 30%.

Do solar panels work in Iowa?

Iowa is located in a region of the U.S. that experiences harsh winters. Luckily, solar panels work just fine in colder temperatures. The Hawkeye State is definitely not the sunniest, experiencing about 4 peak sun hours daily, but solar panels can still generate enough electricity to cover your electricity costs.

Does Iowa have solar energy storage?

Solar energy storage could assist in keeping some essential appliances running in the event of a power outage during a winter storm. Also, municipal and cooperative electric utilities in Iowa are not covered under the state's net metering policy.

Are solar loans a good idea in Iowa?

Solar loans are popular among homeowners because you don't have to have the money for the installation upfront, but you get better lifetime savings than with a leased system. You also get to directly use the incentives (tax credits, rebates, etc.) available in Iowa, rather than a leasing company retaining them.

Do I have to pay property tax on solar panels in Iowa?
