Warranty on solar panels

Overview

What is a performance warranty on a solar panel?

A performance warranty guarantees a maximum level of degradation – typically between .25% and .75% – per year so that in 25 years the panel will still have 80-90% of the power output it did in its first year. Performance warranties are important for sizing solar systems to maintain 100% offset for 25 years.

Do solar panels have a warranty?

These components have their own product warranties, which are generally shorter than solar panel warranties. Solar batteries and inverters both have a service life of 10 to 12 years and a typical warranty period of five years or more. Depending on the manufacturer, you may get a warranty that covers the entire service life of the product.

What warranties does a solar system have?

Today, most home solar energy systems include three primary coverages: product warranties, performance guarantees, and installation warranties. 1. Product warranties A solar product warranty covers the physical components of your system, such as the panels, inverters, or batteries.

How do I get a solar panel warranty?

Generally, the most robust warranties are obtained by hiring installation companies certified by the solar brands they represent. Alternatively, long warranties can also be secured from solar manufacturers that provide their own installation services. What Is Not Covered by a Solar Panel Warranty?
